Linear feet of shelf space occupied: 98 linear feet
Approximate number of pages: 112,000

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Condolence Mail Series contains approximately 40,000 sympathy cards, handwritten and typewritten letters, tablet paper letters (from elementary school children), telegrams, newspaper clippings, photographs, notices of memorial gifts made in Dwight D. Eisenhower's name and poetic and musical tributes composed and sent by private citizens. There are also formal resolutions of sympathy from city and county governments. The vast majority of the mail was postmarked April and May 1969.

Some commercial sympathy card designs were very popular in 1969 as they appear numerous times. Many cards contain all or part of James Whitcomb Riley's "He is Just Away." Verses and sometimes entire booklets written by Helen Steiner Rice, a popular religious and inspirational poet, appear frequently throughout the series. The Hallmark Cards booklet, "To Comfort You", was also popular.

There are many letters from elderly widows sympathizing with Mamie Eisenhower and from World War II veterans proud of having served under her husband. Cards and letters were also sent by his former aides, drivers, office staff, plus many more from military personnel, politicians, diplomats, patriotic organizations, veterans' organizations, religious groups and ordinary citizens.

The series includes many letters, cards, telegrams and notes from foreign countries. These countries include Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bermuda, Brazil, Canada, Ceylon, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Fiji, Finland, France, Great Britain, Greece, Guatemala, Guinea, Honduras, India, Indonesia, Iran, Ireland, Nicaragua, Northern Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Kenya, Luxembourg, Mexico, Morocco, Nepal, The Netherlands, New Zealand, Northern Ireland, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Portugal, Rhodesia, Romania, Scotland, South Africa, South Korea, South Vietnam, Spain, Sultanate of Muscat and Oman, Switzerland, Taiwan, Thailand, Turkey, Tunisia, Uruguay, Vatican City, Venezuela and West Germany. In addition to English, correspondence was written in many languages including Spanish, Italian, German, French, Greek, and Czech.

Ephemera found within the series includes crocheted doilies, bookmarks, handkerchiefs, palm leaf fragments, religious tracts, booklets of inspirational verses, pocket calendars, key chains, religious medals, drawings from grade school students, and a plastic Ike figurine from the Marx Toy Co. The figurine was transferred to the museum.

Notable correspondence found in the series includes a letter from Mrs. Irving Berlin that acknowledges a letter from General Eisenhower (the last one he wrote prior to his death). Other prominent correspondents include Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan, Jr., Freeman Gosden, author Katherine McCook Knox, actor Edward Everett Horton, and Katherine Marshall (widow of General George C. Marshall).

Many congressmen and senators sent cards, letters and telegrams. A few of them are noted in the folder contents lists, including future Secretary of State Donald Rumsfeld. Military leaders who sent cards and letters include Major General William S. Biddle, General Anthony McAuliffe, Admiral Thomas H. Moorer, Admiral John S. McCain, Lieutenant General Frank Sackton, Major General Herbert Earnest, General John E. Hull and General Lemuel Shepherd.

These lists of names are not comprehensive and there are cards and letters from a large number of additional military and political leaders, especially in folders housing telegrams.

Mail was received both at the Eisenhower Library in Abilene, Kansas and the Eisenhower farm in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, regardless of the misspelling of the name of those locations. There were 27 variant spellings of Abilene and 17 of Gettysburg

The series is unarranged and the folders are numbered from 1-1284. Contents of individual folders are not listed, although the container list is annotated with items of special interest or unusual contents. There is no method available for searching for specific names or persons not cited in the annotations of folder contents. Photographs have been transferred to the audiovisual department. Select documents of high intrinsic value have been placed in secure storage, although photocopies are retained in the files for researcher use.
